The screenshot displays the Safar app interface for a trip titled "Japan in December" (Dec 7 - 13, 2026). The left sidebar shows navigation options: Home, Plan, Ideas (highlighted with a red notification badge), Food, Bookings, Money, People, Trip settings, and Collapse. The main content area is titled "Japan in December" and "Step 10: Solve the conflict". It features a "TRIP QUEST" progress bar and a "Demo files" button. The central focus is a conflict resolution screen for "ICHIRAN Shibuya", a Ramen Restaurant with a 4.4 rating (5,245 reviews) and $$ price. A red warning box indicates "Not halal" with a note: "AI estimate from reviews — unverified". Below this, it states "Serves pork" and "Serves alcohol". A prayer room location is noted: "Pray at SEIBU Shibuya Prayer Room · 90 m · 2 min walk". The screen then presents "Votes are split" with two options: "Aminah: Halal / food needs — 'Mak only eats at certified halal places — this one serves pork.'" and "Farid: Halal / food needs — 'Pork broth — not halal for me.'" Under "Middle grounds for the people not going", three suggestions are listed: "Go to Gohan Cafe" (HALAL-LISTED), "Go to A5 Wagyu Burger GYUMON Harajuku Shibuya Tokyo (Halal & Vegan)" (Options HALAL-LISTED), and "Go in the morning instead" (Everyone visits between 6:37 AM and 11:33 AM — clear of prayer times and within opening hours.). A final option "I'll join after all" suggests going with the group and adding a note if needed. The bottom right corner shows "STEP 10 OF 13" and "Solve the conflict".

Each day only gets places in the city you're in that day. Stops are grouped by area, ordered to cut travel, timed with real routes (Google) plus a 10-min buffer, fitted to opening hours, and planned around bookings and the fixed prayer times (prayed near the stop before). Days with no food stop at lunch or dinner get a halal restaurant nearby. Nothing changes until you apply — and you can undo it.
